

Theological Geography

Theological Geography

What You Demand You Destroy

River Dochart

River Dochart is in Perthshire, Scotland.

Coming from Ben Lui, it flows east out of Loch Dochart and through the glen of the same name. At Killin just before it enters Loch Tay are the Falls of Dochart. The river is sometimes also considered to be a part of the upper reaches of the River Tay.

The Rev. David R. Graham
October 8, 2009

The Underlying Question

The question on everyone's mind, all over the world, is whether The United States of America can protect herself from the foreign pathogen that has attacked her Constitution and seized control of her mechanisms of government.

Through their political agents, the super-rich have elevated the lumpenproletariat to be their government agents and set both cadres of agents upon productive people to seize their wealth by fraud, extortion and regulation and transfer it to the super-rich by taxation, deflation and foreclosure.

That is the foreign pathogen that has attacked the Constitution and seized control of the mechanisms of government of the United States of America.

"Will The USA survive?" is the underlying question at this juncture of history. People of all nations are asking this question.

It is not a foregone conclusion that she will.

How will one know whether she does or does not?

Here is a metric for determining whether the United States of America has or has not survived attack and seizure by the aforementioned foreign pathogen:

The USA will survive the current attack and seizure by a foreign pathogen if Congress submits to Constitutional control in 2010 and impeaches the occupiers of the offices of President and Vice-President of the United States before 2012.

What is The United States of America? She is a nation state, first and foremost. But of what nature, what elemental composition?

She comprises three elements: land, people and Constitution with its consequential legal system. These elements are mutually-dependent, and for one to succeed, all must. Land, people and Constitution/legal system can be distinguished but not separated. The United States of America is the concerted dynamics of all three elements interacting purposefully in respect of her nature.

A common purpose unites the elements. This is the dimension of history. The United States is not a phenomenon of the inorganic, the organic, the psychic or even the spiritual dimension of life only. The United States of America is a phenomenon of the historical dimension of life as well, uniting in her nature and transcending in her destiny the other, less complex, comprehensive and powerful dimensions just mentioned.

The United States of America is a fact not merely of geology, chemistry, physics, culture, religion or morality. She is above and beyond banks, farms, schools, courts, jurisdictions, families, publishers, entertainers, markets, businesses, science, religion, thought, ego and other nations. The United States of America is a fact of history, comprising and transcending all phenomena of life and expressing, par excellence, the unity of power and meaning in the purpose of existence.

This appreciation specifically of the dignity and status of The United States of America as an actor both with and within historical destiny must be borne in mind if one is to cognize her current condition and either treat her affliction to restore her strength or regard it as irreversible, therefore terminal, and undeserving further attention.

Any one of the three constituent elements of The United States of America -- land, people, Constitution/legal system -- can be attacked, possibly fatally, by a foreign object or pathogen. That object can be of external or internal origin. In other words, The United States of America can be attacked by invasion or by subversion through any one of its constituent elements: land, people or Constitution/legal system.

The constituent elements of any system both support the system and offer pathways of attack into the heart of the system by a foreign object, which is then deemed a pathogen because it seeks not to enhance the system but to destroy it. The difference between a patho-gen and a eu-gen is that the one aims to destroy the viability and the other aims to enhance viability of the system in which they operate.

General of the Army Douglas MacArthur stated, "Beware not the enemy from 'without' but the enemy from 'within'." Great structures of civilization are brought down by "rust and rot" -- that is, by subversion -- more often than they are brought down by invasion. "Rust and rot" in the form of subversion inside a structure of civilization, such as a nation state, is the usual cause of that structure's deformation, debilitation and demise.

The reason is simple: a subversive force inside her has easier, wider, more direct and more immediate access to the three elements of a nation state (land, people, Constitution/legal system) than does an invading force from outside her. Attack by subversion is more efficient and therefore carries a greater potential of decisive success than attack by invasion.

An attack on one or more of the three elements comprising The United States of America is an attack against The United States of America. If one of the three elements is fatally attacked, The United States of America is destroyed and ceases to exist.

The ease with which an element of a nation state can be attacked is inversely proportional to its ability to survive an attack.

The element of land is that most easily attacked. It is also that with the highest survivability. The element of Constitution/legal system is that most difficult to attack and that with the least survivability. The vulnerability and survivability of the element of people are of equal power.

Therefore, an attack against a nation state, whether by subversion or invasion, should be expected first through her land, since that is the easiest approach to her vital areas, although the most difficult of decisive success, and second through her Constitution/legal system since, although this pathway of attack is the most difficult, it offers the chief opportunity for victory favoring the attacker. Attacks against the people of a nation state should be regarded as diversionary feints merely. However those feints have enormous power to divert time, energy and money for responses to them, which is why they are mounted, of course.

A coup d'œil of the last 100 years' efforts of collectivists (communists, progressives, and recently, "liberals," after communists succeeded in co-opting that denomination for themselves), illustrates this point regarding the vulnerability and survivability of the three elements of the United States of America.

After 100+ years of propaganda -- or "reeducation" as they call it -- through the nation's public and private school systems, combined with flooding the nation with immigrants not required to become Americans (ostensibly to ensure a low-wage work force but really to dilute and ultimately subvert American character and Constitution by polluting its land with anti-American attitudes and activities), the voters of the United States of America, legal, illegal and fraudulent (whom collectivists/communists/progressives promote to outnumber the legal), are evenly split regarding the value of the United States of America as presently landed, peopled and Constituted.

This is a remarkable achievement, conducted over slightly less than half the time since the nation drew together as an element of historical development. It demonstrates the power of persistent, single-minded subversion.

It also demonstrates the equal vulnerability and survivability of the element of people, who tend in any case to laziness and selfishness, even in the face of evidence showing the suicidal consequences of those qualities.

During the same 100+ years of persistent collectivist agitation, the land has been radically attacked from numerous directions.

The Communist Robert J. Oppenheimer was a life-long Soviet-style collectivist who used his positions of influence to blast and radiate the land and then argued for the United States of America to cease nuclear development and disarm. His real purpose, of course, was to weaken the United States of America vis-a- vis Soviet strategic interests, a/k/a imperialism.

From the opposite direction, the collectivist agenda prominently includes eliminating all nuclear and fossil-fuel power, not to help any one or any thing, but rather to destroy the United States of America by cutting off people and Constitution from the working power, the bounty of the land.

However, the split of opinion on this one is not at all even. It is strongly in favor of a stewardly relationship with a very beloved land understood, rightly, to herself want communion and interaction -- but not disruption -- of all her capacities with the other two elements of the nation. Cutting off people and Constitution from land is not something Americans, or citizens and residents of any nation, want to do. They just are not that stupid as to think that is a good thing to do. Cut yourself off from land and cut yourself off from life.

Of course, collectivists want people and Constitution cut off from land not to help any one or any thing but rather to destroy the United States of America, whom they take as the principal object of self-loathing irrationality in them themselves.

Finally, during the same 100+ years, collectivists aimed and continue to aim at rewriting the Constitution of the United States of America and bending its consequential legal system, federal, state and local, to agitate and discriminate for what James Lileks calls “aggressive messianic collectivism.”

The early justification of this effort was termed “eugenics.” The idea was that modern science gave academicians and through them government authorities sufficient knowledge and power to breed desirable (to collectivists) human beings and citizens of the nation state. In other words, the nation was to become a breeding farm for scientists (social, biological, psychological, chemical, genetic) to produce the ideal human being, the supremely desirable race and the absolute utopian society.

Considerable effort both theoretical and experimental was expended in this direction. However, while scientists, as became and remains their custom, promised miraculous successes, their results came ever short of their expectations and pleadings for the simple reason that the human being and the human group are not only mechanically, or as they said, conditionally driven. Both are self-creative, self-integrating and self-transcending. This places human individuals and groups perpetually beyond the context of experimental verifiability unless they are drugged into an inhuman condition, as is done now for this very reason.

After the tyrannical and also racist assumptions of “eugenicists” was exposed (by their own bumptious petulance), they changed their articulation to veil the same collectivist agenda. Thus, they agitated for “world peace,” “disarmament,” “social justice,”

“peace and freedom,” “workers’ rights,” and recently, “diversity,” “multiculturalism,” “deconstructionism,” “anti-racism,” “pro-choice,” “feminism,” “global warming” and “health care,” “open society,” “hope and change,” “world unity” and “climate change” among many other propaganda fronts.

All people advocating those “good things” are collectivist eugenicists intent on creating the perfect human being along with utopian society while terminating the imperfect (in their estimate) and ambiguous. Basically they are selective breeders and killers creating a slave state for themselves to dominate and fleece.

It is collectivist elites, rich people doing this, Ivy Leaguers, lawyers, professors, bureaucrats, journalists, editors and other entertainers. The target most difficult for them to subvert and destroy is the Constitution of the United States of America. The Constitution is protected by both the land and the people. However, at this point in time, with 100+ years of dedicated effort in their dossier, the collectivist elites have overwhelmed the Constitution of the United States of America largely through efficient propaganda and bureaucracy but also by default due to the laziness and selfishness of Americans generally.

Their Constitution has not been effectively protected by the people of the United States of America. The people have accepted the collectivist propaganda that their Constitution is faulty and needs fundamental revision in the collectivist direction. The land does not agree, but its voice is slow to be heard because it carries by a very long peak-to-peak amplitude. Once heard, it is decisive.

Dharma supports those who support Dharma.

It could be said that the 100+-year collectivist effort to subvert and destroy the United States of America aims ultimately to revise its Constitution. That phase of the collectivist effort is the one most patent today. It appears to have succeeded.

What follows now? First, a slave and killing state in place of the United States of America, of Mohammedan ambiance and partial provenance. But also an ancient and guaranteed effective resistance to and victory over “aggressive messianic collectivism:” genuine religion expressed as monastic establishments by and for celibate (i.e., mutually faithful, loyal) families with children, eremites and coenobites.

Psalm 2

1 Why are the nations so angry?

Why do they waste their time with futile plans?

2 The kings of the earth prepare for battle;

the rulers plot together

against the Lord

and against his anointed one.

3 "Let us break their chains," they cry,

"and free ourselves from slavery to God."

4 But the one who rules in heaven laughs.

The Lord scoffs at them.

5 Then in anger he rebukes them,

terrifying them with his fierce fury.

6 For the Lord declares, "I have placed my chosen king on the throne in Jerusalem, on my holy mountain."

7 The king proclaims the Lord's decree:

"The Lord said to me, 'You are my son.

Today I have become your Father.

8 Only ask, and I will give you the nations as your inheritance,
the whole earth as your possession.

9 You will break them with an iron rod
and smash them like clay pots."

10 Now then, you kings, act wisely!

Be warned, you rulers of the earth!

11 Serve the Lord with reverent fear,
and rejoice with trembling.

12 Submit to God's royal son, or he will become angry, and you will be destroyed in the midst of all your activities—
for his anger flares up in an instant.

But what joy for all who take refuge in him!

